

ABSTRACT

A multi-protocol receiver system for receiving wireless communications. The system comprises programmable stages for controlling each steps of the demodulation of at least one broadband signal to provide the I and Q signals of at least one specific frequency narrow band for further processing. The receiver can be used in a software defined radio system.

007E20" 26862960